

Jung Woo Bae for Visiting Student Rep

Hi! I'm Jung Woo :) I study Biochemistry here at St Anne's, but I go to uni in the States. While I am a visiting student at Oxford, to be fair, I think I've been a 'visiting student' all my life. Here's a little run-down of my life story...

- Born in Seoul, South Korea 🇰🇷 → New Zealand for Kindy 🇳🇿 → Indonesia for 4 years 🇮🇩 → Back to NZ, lived for 8+ years 🇳🇿 → Baltimore, US for Uni 🇺🇸 → And finally, here at Oxford, UK! 🇬🇧

So...I've moved around a bit. You can imagine how much packing there was between each step :)

But with each move came a valuable new experience. I've learnt so much about different cultures and I got to meet many, many diverse people. It's taught me to appreciate differences as well as similarities and kept me open-minded. I'm incredibly lucky to be at Oxford because there's so much diversity here already!

First time in London!

I'm running for the Visiting Student Rep because...

- I want to ease the transition for international/visiting students—I know what it's like to move to completely new ground, and while I won't be able to banish the rather uncomfortable phases of adjustment, I can at least help make the transition smoother.
- I value honesty + diversity in perspective, so I hope to take people's thoughts/opinions and act on them to make positive change. From past leadership experiences, I've learnt that action with collaboration makes the biggest impact, so hopefully we can all work together to create a better experience for everyone.
- Life is better with a bit of fun! I aim to bring enjoyable, social events to the international/visiting student community and create ones that highlight the community's uniqueness to the college.

Well, that's all from me! If you haven't seen me around yet, I hope to meet you soon.

Cheers 🙌
Jung Woo
